Housing

Graduate students at Florida State University have a choice between on-campus and off-campus living accommodations.

On-Campus

Housing agreements with the University are available after you are officially admitted to FSU. You can apply for housing online at <https://housing.fsu.edu/future-residents/graduate-and-non-traditional-student-housing> and make a $225 partially-refundable advance payment within 10 days (rates subject to change). Please check the terms and conditions of the housing contract regarding refunds.

Housing Options

Several housing options exist for single students or for students with families. You can apply at Ragans Hall and Traditions Hall.

Housing Contracts

Go to <https://housing.fsu.edu/future-residents/graduate-and-non-traditional-student-housing#contract> for more information.

Off-Campus

Tallahassee has numerous off-campus living accommodations ranging from large apartment complexes to small, quaint apartments, duplexes, and houses in the downtown and surrounding areas. Please visit <http://tallahassee.areaguides.net/apartments.html> for information about off-campus housing. If you have transportation, driving around the areas surrounding the campus usually reveals several rental properties not otherwise listed in the newspapers or online.

Housing Receipts

When you declare Florida residency at the end of the fiscal year (September 30 - October 1) at the REGISTRAR'S OFFICE you should take your mortgage or rent receipts to show that you have been living in Florida for one year. University Residence Halls and other FSU campus addresses are not permanent addresses for residency purposes.

You should apply for residency during the summer of your first year or as soon as you can prove, through your declaration of domicile or your driver's license and license plates or mortgage/rent receipts, that you have met the requirements. You should keep your records current.

You cannot declare residency if you are living in a university residence hall or have any other FSU campus address.

Academic Common Market

The academic common market is an interstate agreement among southern states for sharing academic programs. Participating states enable their residents who qualify for admission to enroll in specific graduate programs in other states on an in-state tuition basis. Arrangements traditionally are limited to unusual programs or programs not offered within the state of residence.

To enroll as an academic common market student an applicant must obtain certification from the common market coordinator in the student's home state. Students must be admitted to the appropriate degree program by the Office of Admissions, and the letter of certification must be received in the Office of the University Registrar before the first day of classes for the effective term. For information on the state's authorization of programs or on the identity of the coordinator for a particular state, contact the Office of the University Registrar or Southern Regional Education Board, 592 10th Street N.W., Atlanta, GA 30318-5776; (404) 875-9211. If you are pursuing a non-thesis Master's degree, there is a standing committee for your major areas. The Director of Master's Studies will serve as your committee chair and will be your main point of contact. If you choose to complete a creative project or thesis as your capstone experience, you will need to secure a major professor and form a replacement advisory committee to oversee your program and your project.

If you are pursuing a Doctoral degree or a Master's degree with a thesis, your major professor is your primary advisor and serves as the chair of your dissertation or thesis committee. The committee should be made up of faculty members whose research interests and expertise can best assist you in your chosen area of research.

If you are pursuing a Master's degree, each member of your committee must have at least Master's Directive Status.

If you are pursuing a Doctoral degree, your committee will have a minimum of four (4) members. One member must be from a different department (generally your cognate area). All members must have Master's Directive Status while at least three members, including the member from outside the School, must have Doctoral Directive Status. The outside member reports directly to Dr. Dennis, Dean of Communication & Information, and to the Dean of the Graduate School.

For doctoral students, after you have passed your Preliminary Examinations, you may re-form the committee. This new or reconstituted supervisory committee will oversee the proposal, approve the dissertation, and supervise the dissertation defense. See page 22 of this handbook for more information on the Preliminary Examination.

Transferring Credit

You can transfer up to six (6) semester hours from another graduate school for the Master's degree. Your committee must approve the transfers.

You cannot transfer or count undergraduate credit towards your graduate degree. If you are transferring graduate coursework, please see Ms. Natasha Hinson-Turner.

Program of Study

A Program of Study is an agreement signed by you, your major professor, your committee, the Director of Master's Studies or Director of Doctoral Studies, and the Director of the School of Communication. It lays out your plan of study. It gives a complete listing of the courses that you have taken, are taking, or will be taking in order to receive your degree. The advising sheets for each major area provide an overview of your goals and requirements, but include choices of many optional courses. The Program of Study is your individual plan that must be approved by your committee.

Through the Program of Study, the School tracks your progress and ensures that you successfully complete the requirements for the degree that you are seeking. Once your Program of Study is signed and approved by your major professor and your committee, you must check with the Graduate Coordinator before sending it on for the remaining signatures. When all required signatures are appended, a copy will be placed in your file and you will be cleared to register for courses for the second term.

If you are in the Master's program, you must complete your Program of Study in the first term that you attend.

If you are in the Doctoral program, you should complete your Program of Study during the second semester that you attend.

Grades

Graduate students are required to earn grades of "B-" or better in all courses in order for the courses to be counted toward the degree. If you earn a grade below "B-" in a foundation course, then you will be required to retake the course and obtain a grade of "B-" or higher. If you earn a grade below "B-" in any other course in your program of studies, then you will be required to retake the course unless the supervisory committee waives the requirement.

Doctoral students are required to maintain a grade point average of at least 3.0 for all Ph.D. work. If you fall below the minimum, you will be placed on probation for one semester. If you are unsuccessful in raising your grade point average to 3.0, you will be dismissed from the program.

If you receive an incomplete ("I") in a course, then you must satisfactorily complete the coursework in the following semester. Only under exceptional circumstances will an extension be given beyond that semester. An "Incomplete Expired" will result in a grade of "F" in the course.

Changes to Program of Study

If courses you proposed in your Program of Study are not available, or other courses are offered that you did not know about, you can request a change in your Program of Study. Once the change on your form has been approved please make sure it has been signed by all the persons who signed the original Program of Study, the amendment must be placed in your file, which is kept by the Graduate Coordinator.

Reviews

The Graduate Policy Council or your supervisory committee reviews doctoral students annually at the end of the spring semester.

The review process considers (a) progress made toward the degree, for example, courses completed, incompletes, grades obtained, and so on; (b) the status of your Program of Study and the formation of your supervisory committee; and (c) where the Program of Study has been approved, noting any unapproved deviations. Subsequent to the review, you will be notified of satisfactory progress or areas of concern.

Registration for Thesis/Treatise/Dissertation Hours

When you complete the required coursework and continue to use campus facilities and/or receive faculty supervision but have not made a final manuscript submission, you must register for a minimum of two (2) credit hours per term. The exact number of hours shall be determined by your major professor. You will complete relevant forms in the Communication Office. The graduate program assistant will assist you.

In the final term in which a degree requiring a thesis, treatise, or dissertation is granted, registration is required and shall consist of a minimum of two (2) semester hours of thesis/dissertation credit. This is to reimburse the University for the Administrative Costs associated with manuscript clearance and final degree clearance procedures. The School cannot waive the three credit hours in your final semester.

If you have not been enrolled for the previous two terms, readmission is required before registration.

Requirements for Master's Students

For full details about University requirements, please see the Graduate Bulletin. Available at: <http://registrar.fsu.edu/bulletin/graduate/>.

Residency (for IMC students only)

Students in any of the master's programs may complete a residency, but it can only be counted as a capstone experience for IMC students. This decision should be made in conjunction with your committee and must be approved by the Director of the School.

You are expected to identify a professional situation where you can spend an ample amount of time applying what you have learned in coursework under the supervision of a professional communicator.

A residency allows you to apply the ideas and practices you have encountered in your courses to a work experience in an organizational setting. You are expected to spend at least half of a regular work-week in the residency. You can receive remuneration from the organization sponsoring the residency.

Guidelines for the Residency are available in the school office at the University Center, Building C Room 3100 and on the school's canvas.

Creative Project

If you plan to complete a Master's Creative Project, consult with your major advisor about the research/creation process, the final written document, and the oral defense.

Course-Only Capstone

For the course-only option, students complete two extra classes instead of the other capstone options.

Thesis

If you plan to complete a Master's Thesis, consult with your major advisor about the research process, the final written thesis, and the oral defense.

Prior to completing the thesis you are strongly encouraged to attend a workshop presented by the Graduate School that addresses the proper formatting of the thesis. For more information call (850) 644-3501 or visit the Graduate School website, <https://gradschool.fsu.edu/academics-research/thesis-treatise-and-dissertation/manuscript-clearance-workshops>.

Manuscript Clearance Overview (ETD)

The following checklist of things you must do before you are cleared for graduation is available on the Graduate School website <https://gradschool.fsu.edu/academics-research/thesis-treatise-and-dissertation/manuscript-clearance-overview>.

Approval Letter to Graduate

You must have a letter of approval from Dr. Dennis, Dean of the College of Communication & Information, in order to graduate.

Requirements for Doctoral Students

For full details about University requirements, please see the Graduate Bulletin. Available at: <https://registrar.fsu.edu/bulletin/graduate/>. See the updated Doctoral Guidelines document each year for specific procedures.

Original Scholarly Paper

You must submit an original scholarly paper to an appropriate journal and/or a state, regional, or national convention. The original paper must be approved by your Doctoral Supervisory Committee before the Preliminary Examination in order to meet this requirement.

Preliminary Examination

You must enroll for COM 8964 and take the Doctoral Preliminary Examination no earlier than your last semester of course work, and before your Prospectus is submitted for approval. You will not be allowed to take the Examination if you have one or more incomplete grades. During that semester, you can take up to six (6) hours of coursework and readings. The School Director must certify that you are eligible for the Preliminary Examination before it is administered.

The goal of the Preliminary Examination is to ascertain that you have mastered the central concepts, theories, and methods related to your chosen field of study, and that you are ready to undertake independent research on the doctoral degree.

During the first part of the semester in which the Examination is taken, you should contact members of your committee to determine the date and time as well as the nature and content of the examination.

You cannot register for dissertation hours until successful completion of the written and oral portions of the Preliminary Examination.

Written Preliminary Examination

The Doctoral Preliminary Examination is designed, administered, and evaluated by the Doctoral Supervisory Committee, with assistance from other faculty members in the School as appropriate. The Examination will consist of at least twelve (12) hours of written examination in the major field and collateral areas. The Examination is given during a specific two-week period.

Oral Preliminary Examination

The oral portion of the Doctoral Preliminary Examination should occur at least one week, but not more than two weeks, following submission of the written portion to committee members. At least one week prior to the Examination, you must notify all school faculties of the date, time, and place of the oral examination.

You are responsible for scheduling the oral defense at a time that is convenient for all committee members. The Examination must be scheduled no later than February 20 (spring). Because faculty appointments are uncertain during the summer so you should avoid scheduling the Examination during the summer semester.

You must successfully complete the Preliminary Examination before you are admitted to candidacy for the doctoral degree. You should immediately file the Admission to Candidacy Form with Ms. Natasha Hinson-Turner who will forward it to the Office of the University Registrar.

After the Admission to Candidacy Form is filed with the Registrar's Office, you will be able to register for dissertation/treatise hours (COM 6980). You can register for dissertation hours each term in which a substantial amount of work is being done on the dissertation. For every subsequent semester after completing your coursework that you register but do not graduate, you must carry three (3) dissertation hours. In the final semester in which you graduate, you must carry a minimum of three (3) dissertation hours to cover the use of university facilities and/or faculty supervision. The minimum number of dissertation hours for completion of a doctoral degree shall be twenty-four (24) semester hours.

You have five years after admission to candidacy to complete all degree requirements. If you fail to meet that deadline, you must retake the Preliminary Examination.

You must be admitted to candidacy at least six (6) months prior to the granting of the degree.

Prospectus Meeting

After you pass the Preliminary Examination, you should work with your major professor on putting together your prospectus. In general, a prospectus is the first three chapters of the dissertation outlining the goals of the project, the proposed theories or framework, and the method(s) of data collection. When scheduling the prospectus meeting, you will check with all the members of the committee to ensure that you choose an appropriate date and time. If one of your members is out of town, you can ask him/her and your major professor about having a conference call.

When your prospectus is approved, you must obtain a Prospectus form, complete it, and return it to the Graduate Coordinator, Ms. Natasha Hinson-Turner in UCC Suite # 3100.

Dissertation Defense

You should review the Manuscript Clearance Overview available on the Graduate School blackboard site or the School of Communication to ensure that you have complied with all University requirements for preparing your dissertation, clearance, and dissertation defense.

Your dissertation defense will be oral. Together with your major professor, you are responsible for arranging the time and designating the place for your defense. Your major professor will preside at the examination. Sufficient time should be allowed between defense and manuscript submission in order to make any revisions required. Final manuscripts must be turned in by the date specified in the Registration Guide, which you can obtain at http://registrar.fsu.edu/registration\_guide/.

Academic courtesy requires that you submit a preliminary draft of the dissertation to each member of your dissertation committee at least four weeks before the date of the oral examination, and a final draft two weeks prior to the oral exam. Your dissertation committee, your director, and such other members of the faculty as may be appointed by the academic dean, may conduct the examination. All members of the graduate faculty are invited to attend. At least two weeks prior to the date of the examination, you or your major professor is required to submit a defense announcement with the title of the dissertation and the date, place and time of the examination to the Graduate School. The defense will be announced to the general university community in “The Week Of” (a publication of the Graduate School).

The examining committee will certify in writing to Dr. Lawrence Dennis, Dean of Communication & Information, the results of the examination: passed, failed, or to be re-examined. One re-examination is allowed. The report of results following a reexamination must indicate that you either passed or failed. A written critique of the conduct of the dissertation defense should be submitted by the representative-at-large from the graduate faculty to Dr. Dennis and the Dean of Graduate School within one week after the date of the defense.
